Abstract

The isolation and characterization of a metastasis tumor suppressor gene KAII is disclosed and diagnostic methods and gene therapy approaches utilizing reagents derived from the nucleotide and deduced amino acid sequences of the KAII gene are provided.